GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY EMPLOYMENT DATA PROTECTION STANDARDS

I. OBJECTIVE

The aim of these Employment Data Protection Standards (“Standards”) is to provide adequate and consistent safeguards for the handling of employment data by GE entities.

II. SCOPE

These Standards apply to all GE entities that process Employment Data.

Processing refers to any action that is performed on Employment Data, whether in whole or in part by automated means, such as collecting, recording, organizing, storing, modifying, using, disclosing, or deleting such data.

Employment Data are defined as any information about an identified or identifiable person that is obtained in the context of a person's working relationship with a GE entity. Such persons include, for example, job applicants, employees (whether temporary or permanent), contingent workers, retirees, and former employees, as well as any dependents or others whose personal data have been given to a GE entity by such persons.

These Standards do not cover data rendered anonymous or where pseudonyms are used. Data are rendered anonymous if individual persons are no longer identifiable or are identifiable only with a disproportionately large expense in time, cost, or labor. The use of pseudonyms involves the replacement of names or other identifiers with substitutes, so that identification of individual persons is either impossible or at least rendered considerably more difficult. If data rendered anonymous become no longer anonymous (i.e., individual persons are again identifiable), or if pseudonyms are used and the pseudonyms allow identification of individual persons, then these Standards will again apply.

III. APPLICATION OF LOCAL LAWS

These Standards are designed to provide a uniform minimum compliant standard for every GE entity with respect to its protection of Employment Data worldwide. GE recognizes that certain laws may require stricter standards than those described in these Standards. GE entities will handle Employment Data in accordance with local law applicable at the place where the Employment Data are processed. Where applicable local law provides a lower level of protection of Employment Data than that established by these Standards, then the requirements of the Standards shall apply. Questions about compliance with local law may be addressed to local GE business legal counsel.

IV. PRINCIPLES FOR PROCESSING EMPLOYMENT DATA

GE respects the privacy rights and interests of each individual. GE entities will observe the following principles when processing Employment Data:

- Data will be processed fairly and lawfully.
- Data will be collected for GE's specific, legitimate purposes with respect to GE's legitimate interests in the employment context as illustrated in the Uses of Employment Data for GE Entities supplement, and not processed further in ways incompatible with those purposes.

- Data will be relevant to and not excessive for the purposes for which they are collected and used. For example, using Privacy by Design to determine when it is feasible and appropriate to anonymize personal data, depending on the nature of the data and the risks associated with the intended uses.
- Data will be accurate, and where necessary, kept up-to-date. Reasonable steps will be taken to rectify or delete Employment Data that is inaccurate or incomplete.
- Data will be kept only as long as it is necessary for the purposes for which it was collected and processed in accordance with applicable GE retention schedules.
- Data will be processed in accordance with the individual's legal rights (as described in these Standards or as provided by law).

- Appropriate technical, physical, and organizational measures will be taken to prevent unauthorized access, unlawful processing, and unauthorized or accidental loss, destruction, or damage to data.

V. PURPOSES FOR EMPLOYMENT DATA PROCESSING

GE and GE entities process Employment Data for legitimate human resources, business, and safety/security purposes. Such processing will be conducted within such purpose limitations and in accordance with applicable law. These principal purposes include:

- Human Resources and Personnel Management: Human resource processes are activities to maintain a workforce for GE. Examples include recruiting, delivering pay, managing careers, training, administering employee benefits, complying with applicable legal requirements, and communicating with employees and/or their representatives.
- Business Process Execution and Management: Business processes are activities to run the operations of GE. Examples include scheduling work, managing company assets (such as corporate operations, taxation, mergers and acquisitions and similar activities, including in the event of the separation of GE businesses into independent companies (“Separation” described below), and populating employee directories.
- Safety and Security: Safety/security processes are activities to ensure the safety and protection of GE’s workers, resources, and communities. Examples include protecting occupational health and safety and authenticating worker status to authorize access to GE resources and facilities.
- Additionally, GE processes Employment Data to comply with employee contracts, to satisfy any legal requirements, and to establish or defend GE’s legal rights. If individuals do not provide this data, GE may not be able to comply with its obligations. In such cases GE will inform the individual about the consequences of not providing that Employment Data.
- GE will also process Employment Data in connection with any Separation. In order to provide an effective transition in relation to a Separation, Employment Data may be processed jointly by various GE business entities, including both remaining and separated GE business entities during a Separation-related transition period. During any such Separation-related transition period, all remaining and separated GE business entities remain responsible for compliance with the data protection requirements described in these Employment Data Protection Standards.
- If a GE entity introduces a new process or tool that will result in the processing of Employment Data for purposes that go beyond the purposes described above, the GE entity responsible for the new process or tool will ensure that the concerned employees are informed of the new process or tool, the purposes for which the Employment Data are to be used, and the categories of recipients of the Employment Data.

VI. SPECIAL CATEGORIES OF DATA

To the limited extent a GE entity needs to collect any Special Data (such as data containing personal information about racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, trade-union membership, health, genetic or biometric data, sex life or sexual orientation, or criminal records), the GE entity will ensure that the individual is informed of such collection and processing. Where required by law, the person's explicit consent to the processing and particularly to the transfer of such data to non-GE entities will be obtained. Appropriate security and protection measures (e.g., physical security devices, encryption, and access restrictions) will be provided depending on the nature of these categories of data and the risks associated with the intended uses.

VII. SECURITY AND CONFIDENTIALITY GE entities are committed to taking appropriate technical, physical, and organizational measures to protect Employment Data against unauthorized access, unlawful processing, accidental loss or damage, and unauthorized destruction.

Equipment and Information Security

To safeguard against unauthorized access to Employment Data by third parties outside GE, all electronic Employment Data held by GE entities are maintained on systems that are protected by secure network architectures that contain firewalls and intrusion detection devices. The servers holding Employment Data are "backed up" (i.e., the data are recorded on separate media) on a regular basis to avoid the consequences of any inadvertent erasure or destruction of data. The servers are stored in facilities with comprehensive security and fire detection and response systems.

Access Security

GE entities limit access to internal systems that hold Employment Data to a select group of authorized users who are given access to such systems through the use of a unique identifier and password. Access to Employment Data is limited to and provided to individuals for the purpose of performing their job duties (e.g., a human resources manager may need access to an employee's compensation data to conduct salary planning, or a training manager may need to know the names of those who need certain training and the languages they speak). Decisions regarding such access are made by assigned security administrators. Compliance with these provisions will be required of third-party administrators who may access certain Employment Data, as described in Section IX. TRANSFERRING DATA.

Training

GE will conduct training regarding the lawful and intended purposes of processing Employment Data, the need to protect and keep information accurate and up-to-date, and the need to maintain the confidentiality of the data to which employees have access. Authorized users will comply with these Standards, and GE entities will take appropriate disciplinary actions, in accordance with applicable law, if Employment Data are accessed, processed, or used in any way that is inconsistent with the requirements of these Standards.

VIII. RIGHTS OF DATA SUBJECTS

Any person may inquire as to the nature of the Employment Data stored or processed about him or her by any GE entity. Persons will be provided access to Employment Data as is required by law in their home countries, regardless of the location of the data processing and storage. A GE entity processing such data will cooperate in providing such access either directly or through the employing entity. All such requests for access may be made to the employee's local human resources manager.

If any Employment Data is inaccurate or incomplete, the person may request that the data be amended. It is every person's responsibility to provide Human Resources with accurate Employment Data about him or her and to inform Human Resources of any changes (e.g., new home address or change of name).

If access or rectification is denied, the reason for the denial will be communicated and a written record will be made of the request and reason for denial. In this case the person affected may make use of the dispute resolution processes described in Section XII. ENFORCEMENT RIGHTS AND MECHANISMS.

If the person demonstrates that the purpose for which the data is being processed is no longer legal or appropriate, the data will be deleted, unless the law requires otherwise.

During the period of transition related to any Separation, individuals may exercise these rights with any GE business entity within the GE group of remaining and separated GE business entities with which the individual has or has had an employment relationship. Remaining and separated GE business entities will coordinate as appropriate to respond to such rights exercises, in compliance with applicable law.

IX. TRANSFERRING DATA

Where legally required, GE performs transfer impact assessments in relation to international data transfers of Employment Data necessary to the purposes for processing described above, including GE's satisfaction of its employment obligations, and applies additional safeguards around those transfers as may be required.

Transfers to other GE entities: GE strives to ensure a consistent and adequate level of protection for Employment Data that are processed and/or transferred between GE entities. A transfer of Employment Data to another GE entity is considered a transfer between two different entities, which means that even in such "intra-group" cases, a data transfer shall be carried out only if applicable legal requirements are met and if:

- The transfer is based on a clear business need, and
- The receiving entity provides appropriate security for the data, and
- The receiving entity ensures compliance with these Standards for the transfer and any subsequent processing.

GE's privacy practices, described in these Standards, comply with the APEC Cross Border Privacy Rules System. The APEC CBPR system provides a framework for organizations to ensure protection of personal information transferred among participating APEC economies. More information about the APEC framework can be found here.

GE may share Employment Data within the GE group of remaining and separated GE business entities during a Separation-related transition period. During any such Separation-related transition period, all remaining and separated GE business entities remain responsible for compliance with the data protection requirements described in these GE Employment Data Protection Standards.

Transfers to non-GE entities:

- Selected Third Parties: At times, GE entities may be required to transfer Employment Data to selected external third parties that they have hired to perform certain employment-related services on their behalf. These third parties may process the data in accordance with the GE entity's instructions or make decisions regarding the data as part of the delivery of their services (e.g., to assess eligibility for a disability benefit). In either instance, GE entities will select reliable suppliers who undertake, by contract or other legally binding and permissible means, to put in place appropriate security measures to ensure an adequate level of protection. GE entities will require external third-party suppliers to comply with these Standards or to provide comparable levels of protection as GE when handling Employment Data. Such selected third parties will have access to Employment Data solely for the purposes of performing the services specified in the applicable service contract. If a GE entity concludes that a supplier is not complying with these obligations, it will promptly take appropriate actions.

- Other Third Parties: GE entities may be required to disclose certain Employment Data to other third parties: (1) as a matter of law (e.g., to tax and social security authorities); (2) to protect GE's legal rights (e.g., to defend a litigation suit); or (3) in an emergency where the health or security of an employee is endangered. In addition, GE may disclose certain Employment Data to other third parties for the purposes of evaluating and executing mergers and acquisitions, JVs or other similar company asset management activities; in such cases, GE will require those third parties to comply with these Standards or to provide comparable levels of protection as GE when handling Employment Data.

GE's privacy practices, described in this Policy, comply with the APEC Cross Border Privacy Rules System. The APEC CBPR system provides a framework for organizations to ensure protection of Personal Information transferred among participating APEC economies. ## X. DIRECT MARKETING

GE entities do not disclose Employment Data to entities outside GE for use in marketing products or services to GE workers. GE does not use non-work contact data (e.g., home address or telephone number) to offer products or services to a GE worker for personal or familial consumption without his or her prior consent. Further, GE will not use workplace contact data (e.g., work address or work e-mail address) to offer products or services, unless (1) prior written approval has been obtained from GE's Senior Vice President, Human Resources, in Boston, Massachusetts, USA; and (2) recipients are given an opportunity to opt-out of receiving such communications.

The restrictions in this section apply only to contact data obtained in the context of a working relationship with GE. They do not apply to contact data obtained in the context of a consumer or customer relationship. In addition, in the United States or elsewhere where permitted by law, GE may communicate information to GE workers about employee benefits or about GE-supported charitable programs (e.g. United Way in the U.S.).

XI. AUTOMATED DECISIONS

Some countries regulate the making of Automated Decisions, which are decisions about individuals that are based solely on the automated processing of data and that produce legal effects that significantly affect the individuals involved. Except in very limited circumstances GE entities do not make Automated Decisions to evaluate workers or for other purposes. If Automated Decisions are made, affected persons are entitled to understand the logic and express their views on the Automated Decision in question.

XII. ENFORCEMENT RIGHTS AND MECHANISMS

All GE entities will ensure that these Standards are observed. All persons who have access to Employment Data must comply with these Standards. In some countries, violations of data protection regulations may lead to penalties and/or claims for damages.

If at any time, a person believes that Employment Data relating to him or her has been processed in violation of these Standards, he or she may report the concern to a Human Resources manager or to an ombudsperson at the GE site, at the relevant GE entity's headquarters, or at GE Corporate; or (where applicable) to a Data Protection Officer. GE's ombudspersons are a network of compliance specialists who are led by and work with the GE Corporate ombudspersons, who are independent of the business lines of management. Their work is overseen by GE's Vice President, Corporate Audit Staff and by GE's Senior Vice President, Finance & Chief Financial Officer. A list of the Company ombudspersons and their contact information is available at: <https://integrity.ge.com/raise-a-concern/how-to-raise-a-concern/>.

If the concern relates to an alleged violation of these Standards by a GE entity located in a country other than that of the person or the exporting GE entity, he or she may request the assistance of the exporting entity. That GE entity will assist him or her in investigating the circumstances of the alleged violation. If the violation is confirmed, the exporting and importing entities will work together with any other relevant parties to resolve the matter in a satisfactory manner, consistent with the provisions of these Standards.

If Human Resources or the ombudsperson process does not resolve the concern, it may be escalated to GE's Employment Data Protection Committee. The Employment Data Protection Committee, chaired by GE's Chief Privacy Leader, is composed of senior compliance specialists who are independent of the business lines of management and who have oversight responsibility for all aspects of compliance with these Standards and for the resolution of all concerns and issues that arise with respect to GE's handling of Employment Data under these Standards. The Employment Data Protection Committee may be contacted by e-mail at ~CORP Employment Data Privacy.

The Employment Data Protection Committee will communicate its decision and any associated remedy to the relevant persons.

If you have an unresolved privacy or data use concern that we have not addressed satisfactorily, please contact our U.S.-based third party dispute resolution provider (free of charge) at <https://feedback-form.truste.com/watchdog/request>.

The processes described in these Standards supplement any other remedies and dispute resolution processes provided by GE and/or available under applicable law.

XIII. AUDIT PROCEDURES

To further ensure enforcement of these Standards, GE's Chief Privacy Leader, along with GE's Global Privacy Working Group, which is composed of senior privacy officials from each of GE's major businesses, will identify Employment Data procedures that should be audited. For this purpose, GE will engage its Corporate Audit Staff, who are independent of the business lines of management. Members of the Audit Staff report to GE's Vice President, Corporate Audit Staff, who has an independent line of communication to the Audit Committee of GE's Board of Directors. Reports of the Audit Staff's findings will be submitted to GE's Policy Compliance Review Board and/or GE's Global Privacy Working Group for review and response. The Board or Working Group will require an action plan to ensure compliance with these Standards. To the extent such matters cannot be adequately handled with GE's own resources, GE agrees to appoint an independent third party to conduct an investigation/audit of any procedures or issues involving Employment Data under the Standards.

XIV. COMMUNICATION ABOUT THE STANDARDS

In addition to the training on these Standards, GE will communicate these Standards to current and new employees by posting them on selected internal GE websites and by providing a link to the Standards on information technology applications where Employment Data are collected or processed.

XV. MODIFICATIONS TO THE STANDARDS

GE reserves the right to modify these Standards as needed, for example, to comply with changes in laws, regulations, GE practices and procedures, or requirements imposed by data protection authorities.

GE's Chief Privacy Leader, or his/her designee, must approve all changes to the Standards for them to become effective. GE will inform GE employees and other persons of any material changes in the Standards. GE will post all changes to the Standards on relevant websites, including integrity.ge.com.

Effective with the implementation of these Standards, all existing intra- group agreements and applicable company privacy guidelines relating to the processing of Employment Data will be superseded by the terms of these Standards. All parties to any such agreements will be notified of the effective date of implementation of the Standards.

XVI. OBLIGATIONS TOWARD DATA PROTECTION AUTHORITIES

GE will respond diligently and appropriately to requests from data protection authorities about these Standards or compliance with applicable data protection and privacy laws and regulations. GE employees who receive such requests should contact their local Human Resources manager or business legal counsel. GE will, upon request, provide data protection authorities with names and contact details of relevant contact persons. With regard to transfers of Employment Data between GE entities, the importing and exporting GE entities will (i) co- operate with inquiries from the data protection authority responsible for the entity exporting the data, and (ii) respect its decisions, consistent with applicable law and due process rights.

ADDENDUM

Rights and Obligations with Respect to Employment Data Collected Within the EU/EEA and Processed Elsewhere

In addition to any rights and obligations that are set forth in GE's Employment Data Protection Standards ("Standards") or that otherwise exist, the following principles established in light of the European General Data Protection Regulation ("GDPR") will apply to Employment Data collected by GE entities in the European Union/European Economic Area and processed elsewhere. In jurisdictions where this Addendum applies, the enforcement rights and mechanisms mentioned in the Standards also apply to the provisions of this Addendum. The following are not intended to grant employees further rights or establish further obligations beyond those already provided under the GDPR:

1. Employees may object to the processing of Employment Data about them on compelling legitimate grounds relating to their particular situation. This might occur, for instance, if the employee's life or health is at risk due to the processing of the data. This provision shall not apply if the processing is (i) required by law, (ii) based on the employee's individual consent, or (iii) necessary to fulfill a contractual obligation between the employee and GE.

2. After exhausting appropriate internal dispute resolution processes, employees may seek compensatory damages from a GE entity for loss or damage to them caused by a violation of the Standards (including the provisions of this Addendum) by the GE entity. The GE entity shall not be liable for damages if it has observed the standard of care appropriate in the circumstances.
3. If a GE entity within the EEA transfers Employment Data to a GE entity located outside the EEA and if the GE entity outside the EEA violates any provision of these Standards relating to Employment Data which had been collected within the EEA, the GE entity having exported such Employment Data shall put the employee in a position as if the GE entity exporting the Employment Data had committed the violation, and GE will accept jurisdiction of the exporting entity's country so that the employee may bring a claim there with respect to such violation.
4. If any terms or definitions used in the Standards are ambiguous, the definitions established under applicable local law within the relevant EU/EEA member state shall apply or where there are no such definitions under applicable local law, the definitions of the GDPR shall apply.
